SCRIPT TITLE

Written by

Name of First Writer

Based on, If Any

Address
Phone Number

INT. OFFICE - DAY

A MAN is sitting at his desk, eating lunch.

                    NARRATOR
          Do your coworkers keep asking you dumb questions?

He gets a notification on his phone. He looks at it and shakes his head.

                    NARRATOR (CONT'D)
          Or wont stop trying to offload
          their work onto you?

A WOMAN 1 looks at her laptop and puts her head into her arms.

                    NARRATOR (CONT'D)
          Or keep asking for updates?

A WOMAN 2 is on a desktop and receives a slack message. It just says "Just checking in"

                    NARRATOR (CONT'D)
          Do you just want to get through the day?

All three people look at the camera and dejectedly nod their head.

                    NARRATOR (CONT'D)
          Introducing, SpeakEasily! The app that makes it look like you put just enough effort into your messages so you don't get fired.

          The workday is long and the questions you get are inane.

Woman 1 is reading an email from her manager that is asking a long winded question asking her to finish the manager's presentation for them.

                    NARRATOR (CONT'D)
          Sometimes you want to be curt.

Woman 1 drafts an email that just says "no".

                    NARRATOR (CONT'D)
          Or rude.

Man is reading a text asking if spilling soda on a laptop ruins the laptop. He starts typing "are you an idiot?"

> NARRATOR (CONT'D)
> Or you just want to scream.

Woman 2 drafts a response to the "what up?" slack message by banging her head against her keyboard.

> NARRATOR (CONT'D)
> But our capitalist system requires that you to maintain the illusion that you respect your coworkers in order to remain employed so you can afford basic necessities.
>
> Luckily, you have SpeakEasily.

Montage of the bad responses being autocorrected to work acceptable responses:

Woman 1's response auto corrects from "no" to "Hi Mike! I'm sorry but my current project will take up all of my bandwidth until the end of the sprint..."

Man 1's response auto corrects from "are you an idiot?" to "Great question Steve! Base on my research, it appears that..."

Woman 2's response auto corrects from gibberish to "I'm still in the discovery process.".

> NARRATOR (CONT'D)
> Our proprietary, machine learning algorithm analyzes the question that you've been sent and drafts tens of thousands of responses that are run through millions of iterations a dozen Monte Carlo simulations in order to find the one response that is least likely to get you fired.

Montage of bosses/coworkers reading the response and smiling and nodding.

> NARRATOR (CONT'D)
> With SpeakEasily, you'll finally have the time to enjoy your lunch.

Man is happily eating his lunch.

> NARRATOR (CONT'D)
> Or take a nap.

Woman 1 slumps back in her chair and dozes off.

                    NARRATOR (CONT'D)
          Or lead the worker uprising of your dreams.

Woman 2 lights and torch and grabs a pitchfork before joining a crowd of other torch and pitchfork wielding people.

                    MAN/WOMAN 1/WOMAN 2
          Thanks SpeakEasily!

BLACKOUT